

Announcing, introducing, bringing to you!
for a special, once-only, never to be repeated, stunning, startling, shocking and stultifying extravaganza of entertainment, edification, and enlightenment!!!
The very first (1st) Drone¹ of the 2018 academic year!

The Sophia University Drones Club!²

The subject of this Drone is INTELLIGENCE!?!³ and Dominic Cheetham⁴ of the English Literature Department will be inviting anyone and everyone for their two-pennyworth⁵ on earth-shatteringly significant questions, such as:

What is it?

Where can I get some?

This Drone really is work in progress, and although Dominic has a few ideas and would like to introduce a horrendously complex and utterly confusing framework for thinking about intelligence, his own lack of cerebral wattage makes it necessary to get ideas from other people before he can really make any sense of the problem⁶. So step on up, one and all, for an exciting and illuminating, convivial evening where the hours flit pass like the longest and dullest of Nordic winter nights!

AND!!!

We also have a sharing session, or buzz session, or something, (to make it sound interesting), where those who wish can introduce some of the work they are doing!!

No sign up required!!! If you are interested, then please come along!⁷

Time: 5:15pm Thursday 26th April

Place: TBA⁸
