

SOPHIA UNIVERSITY DRONES
PRESENT,

The Return of the Drones!!!!

Featuring
the inimitable¹, the incredible², the intractable³,

Joseph O'Leary⁴

who will thrill us with:

Comic Entrances,

Tragic Exits:

Aristophanes'⁵ Clouds and

Socrates⁶;

Gilbert & Sullivan's Patience
and Wilde⁷.

Supported by Dominic Cheetham,
who will talk briefly about flowers⁸.

Building 6, room 403, April 25th from 5:20-ish

¹ Not to be confused with 'inimicable'. Or was it the other way around?

² Not in the sense of 'difficult to give credence to', but more sort of 'astounding' or 'stunning'. Or was it the other way around?

³ Nothing to do with tractors, tractor-beams, immobilization and stretching of broken bones, 'difficult to get a grip on' or 'slippery'. More the sort of ineffable, implacable side of things. But not in a bad way.

⁴ Famous for being Joseph O'Leary.

⁵ Wasps, birds, frogs, clouds; things like that.

⁶ Not 'Aristophanes' Socrates'.

⁷ Oscar, not Gene, who apparently was wilder, but nowhere near as good with words.

⁸ And Wilde.
